II. Workshop: Opportunities and challenges of generative AI for managers and leaders

The International Science Council has been actively supporting its members in their journeys to digital maturity. This workshop continues that process, supporting managers and leaders at the organizational level as they engage with AI and how it can be used by their staff and stakeholders. The workshop aims to develop a shared understanding of AI and its relevance to the standard work of organisations, explore the implications of AI use on management, operations, services, culture and stakeholders, and identify current and potential AI use cases among staff in organisations like science organisations.

All staff members, office bearers and representatives of an ISC Member organization, as well as ISC Fellows, are invited to register, with a limit of one person per organization. Due to its interactive nature, the workshop is limited to 25 participants at a time and is available on a first come, first served basis.

The workshop will be facilitated twice so that all individuals in all time zones have an opportunity to attend.

Session 1: 6 November 2024, 14:00-15:30 UTC

Session 2: 7 November 2024, 7:00-8:30 UTC

Place: Online

V. SRI2025 invites proposals to the 2025 Congress program

Since 2021, SRI has united global leaders in research, government, civil society, and business to meaningfully advance sustainability. The SRI Congress offers an exceptionally inclusive and inspiring global platform for co-creating state-of-the-art solutions and innovations; building a coalition of the willing to achieve a sustainability transformation. The Congress will take place in Chicago, Illinois, and will build on the work done in Oceania, African, Latin American, and European-hosted events.

Organisers invite session proposals on current issues, potential solutions, and key questions. The SRI Congress team will work with session organizers to design sessions that are interactive, informative and inclusive, making sure we provide all participants a range of ways to engage. This call for contributions is open to any group of people (research, government, business, philanthropy, art, communications, technology, and civil society) working to develop and implement the solutions we need to create a more sustainable, equitable, inclusive, and just future. All submissions will be reviewed by the SRI2025 Program Team.
